

January 5-22

Winterim Courses

EARN 3
CREDITS IN 3 WEEKS!

Interested in sports? Always wanted to know more about leading a team? Whether you are the next Vince Lombardi or just enjoy learning about sports, this course is for you!

PED 210 Theory of Coaching (PRISM #1057)

Monday - Friday 9:00 am to 12:00 pm, Barney Slowey

Theory and methodology of coaching both team and individual sports. Coaching psychology, philosophy, and administrative responsibilities (skill assessment, practice/game organization, rules, fundamentals, and play of various sports) will be explored through lecture, lab, and field experience. Possible sports may include, but are not limited to: tennis, golf, wrestling, swimming, basketball, volleyball, soccer, track, and football. Area coaches will be invited as guest speakers. AP

Enjoy your favorite literature by sharing it with an audience! You'll explore literature in a new way by learning how to read with emotion and feeling and acquiring presentation skills that will enhance self-confidence and expression. You'll get plenty of feedback from your instructor and classmates, culminating in a public performance of your best work.

COM 230 Literature and Performance (PRISM #1056)

Monday-Friday 12:30 pm to 3:30 pm, Terry Wiesner

This course is designed to enhance the appreciation of literature through reading, analysis, and performance. Students will find that sharing literature with an audience through performance is an effective and enjoyable means of experiencing the many genres of world literature. HU

Register now in PRISM!

See Student Services with questions about Financial Aid.

SIGN UP TODAY!